

Echo of Your Love

Though you have gone beyond my sight,
into the arms of endless light,
your love remains - a steady flame,
a whisper soft that speaks your name.

In quiet dawns and evening hush,
I feel your presence in the hush.
The way you laughed, the words you said,
still bloom like roses in my head.

You taught me grace, you showed me care,
a guiding star still shining there.

Though grief may knock, I rise above-
because you filled my heart with love.

You shape my world, you left your mark
a steady light within the dark.
And now, in all I say and do,
I carry forward love from you.

So let the tears and smiles entwine-
a life well-lived is soul divine.
You are not gone, not far, not dim-
you live in me and love through him.